

THE ENQUIRER.

LITCHFIELD, MAY 27, 1830.

U. S. Senator.—It will be seen by our legislative proceedings, that his Excellency GIBSON THOMAS has been elected a Senator in Congress for six years from the 4th of March next, when the period of Mr. Willey's service will expire. There were 195 votes given in the House, of which Gov. T. had 168. The scattering votes were, for R. M. Sherman 20, I. W. Crawford 3, R. I. Rogers 3, Wm. Bristol 3, A. T. Judson 2, E. Phelps 2, T. S. Williams 1, B. W. Edwards 1, and 1 vote not legibly written. The Senate concurred in the appointment by a vote of 18 to 3. The appointment is one which we have no doubt will give very general satisfaction. Gov. T. has heretofore represented the state in the lower house of Congress with distinguished reputation.

On Wednesday the 19th, Elisha Phelps, Esq. was chosen Comptroller, in the place of James Thomas, Esq. The Senate have concurred in this appointment. Mr. Phelps immediately after the vote in the House having signified to the Senate that he wished no longer to be considered a candidate. Mr. Phelps has, we believe, been a faithful public servant—and on this account we were sorry to see him displaced to make room for a more rancorous politician—one too who has become we fear too much identified with the Jackson faction at Hartford, who are endeavoring to rule the state.

It is pretty generally understood that the two Virginia Senators, Messrs. Tazewell and Tyler, Mr. Smith of South Carolina, and Mr. Forsyth of Georgia were the gentlemen of the Jackson party who had the firmness and independence to vote against the nomination of Mr. Noah as Surveyor of the Port of New-York—and the three former against the nomination of Kendall as Auditor. For this act of duty, they are abused without stint or measure in the columns of those chaste vehicles of detraction, the New-York Courier and Hartford Times.

Mr. Tazewell has since obtained leave of absence for the remainder of the session; and Mr. Noah has gone on to Washington, for the purpose, it is said, of inducing the President to renominate him. In that event, and in the absence of Messrs. Tazewell and Smith, and supposing the rest of the Senate to remain firm in their former vote, the decision would devolve upon the Vice President. How he would decide, may be conjectured from the vote given for Kendall.

Methodist College.—At a recent meeting of the New York Conference, in the city of New-York, a resolution was passed to locate the contemplated Methodist College at Middletown, in this state. The New-England Conference will no doubt second the measure, and preparations be forthwith made to have the institution go into operation. The citizens of Middletown, with a generosity worthy of all commendation, have already subscribed 20 or 30,000 dollars towards the foundation of the college, besides granting the buildings erected for Capt. Partridge's Academy to its use. It is supposed that some portion of the College will commence operations within a year.

Mr. Jenks.—Having last week stated, on what was generally deemed good authority, that Samuel H. Jenks, Esq. late editor of the Boston Bulletin, had received the appointment of a Clerk in the Secretary of State's office, we now contradict the statement, on the authority of the National Journal. Mr. J. has received no permanent appointment from that department, nor from any other.

Massachusetts.—It is calculated that there are four hundred and fifty members elected to the next General Assembly from this state. What an army!

Sunday Mails.—The resolution some time since offered by Mr. Frelinghuysen in the U. S. Senate, against the transportation of the mail on the Sabbath, was lately called up and supported by the mover, and opposed by Mr. Livingston, in powerful speeches. Mr. Grundy moved to lay the resolution on the table, which was carried by a very great majority, scarce a voice being heard in the negative. So that this question is put to rest in that body. And so, say we, let it remain at rest.

A young man named Edmund Williams died at Litchfield about the first of the month. On his death-bed he made many disclosures of robberies committed by himself in conjunction with others. It was their intention to have broken into the house of a wealthy gentleman at Litchfield, murdered his family, and fired his house; every thing was prepared, and the night fixed for the crime, but Williams was taken sick in the meantime, and the business was postponed until his recovery. His accomplices have escaped.

The above article we copy from the Westfield (Mass.) Register of the 19th inst. If the Litchfield spoken of be intended for this town, then the story is entirely fabulous in all its parts. We trust we have no secondaries in this town sufficiently base and depraved to conceive such a project, much less to carry it into effect.

We since learn that Litchfield, in Maine, is the place alluded to in the foregoing article.

John Q. Adams.—The following excellent letter was transmitted by the late President in answer to an invitation from the Secretary to attend the anniversary of the American Bible Society in New-York, and read before the meeting.

To Rev. J. C. Brigham, Secretary of the American Bible Society, New-York.

WASHINGTON, 26th April, 1830.
Sir: Your letter of the 23d March, was duly received; and while regretting my inability to attend personally at the celebration of the anniversary of the institution on the 13th of next month, I pray you, sir, to be assured of the gratification which I have experienced, in learning the success which has attended the benevolent exertions of the American Bible Society. In the decease of Judge Washington, they have lost an able and venerable associate, whose direct co-operation, not less than his labors and exemplary life, contributed to promote the cause of the Redeemer; yet not for him, nor for ourselves by the loss of him, are they called to sorrow as without hope, for lives like his shine but as purer and brighter lights in the world, after the lamp which fed them is extinct, than before.

The distribution of Bibles, if the simplest, is not the least efficacious of the means of extending the blessings of the gospel to the remotest corners of the earth—for the Comforter is in the Sacred Volume, and among the receivers of that million of copies distributed by the Society, will find number the multitudes awakened thereby, with good will to man in their hearts, and with the Song of the Lamb upon their lips! The hope of a Christian is inseparable from his faith. Whence believes in the divine inspiration of the Holy Scriptures, must hope that the religion of Jesus shall prevail throughout the earth. Never, since the foundation of the world, have the prospects of mankind been more encouraging to that hope than they appear to be at the present time; and may the associated distribution of the Bible proceed and prosper, till the Lord shall have made bare his holy arm in the eyes of all the nation; and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.

With my respects to the Board of Managers, please to accept the good wishes of your friend and fellow citizen,
JOHN Q. ADAMS.

The New-Haven Herald of Tuesday contains no further proceedings of the legislature than is comprised in the preceding page.

Our correspondent at New-Haven not having written us this week, we copy the following paragraph from a letter to the editors of the Connecticut Courant, dated the 23d inst.

"The bill to dispense with military parades except on the first Monday of May, has not yet been finally disposed of. The military gentlemen will of course disrelieve it, and although public sentiment is ripening for an important change in the whole system, yet it will probably end for the present year in a little more patch work to our military code, which is already pretty well tattered and torn."

"The bill to make every town a probate district has not yet been acted upon in the Senate, of course your readers must wait a little longer before they anticipate the return of some fifty members of the lower house, dignified with the title of judge of probate."

"The committee on Banks have heard the several petitions praying for incorporation of that description, and have reported against them all. Little doubt remains of the concurrence of both branches of the Legislature in the decision of the committee."

"Petitions are pending from Yale and Washington Colleges for aid, which are before the appropriate committees. It is a source of consolation, that, amid all the conflicts of party, the interests of literature and science are not forgotten, and that the great body of the people regard our religious, literary, and humane institutions as the pride of our little State."

GENERAL SUMMARY.

Suicides.—In Lynn, Ms. Jesse Batchelder, aged 30, by hanging himself. In Salem, Elizabeth Clifford, aged 16, said to be a girl of great personal beauty, hung herself in a barn adjoining her residence. She left the family about 10 o'clock at night, saying she was going into a neighbor's to sleep, as she had frequently done. In the morning she was found hanging in the barn. No reasons assigned. In Ipswich, Mrs. Rowe, formerly of Salem, by taking arsenic. She survived two or three hours after swallowing the dose.

Distressing.—On the 16th inst. the stream passing through the village of Branchville, N. J. was so much swollen by the rains that several mill dams in the neighborhood were carried off, and the buildings and machinery attached thereto also removed or materially injured. The house of Michael Mackery was entirely swept away, he and his wife being in it. In endeavoring to reach the shore, the lady was drowned. She had held on to her husband, who was clinging to a bush; but a log passing, struck him with such force as to stun him—he floated down some distance, caught hold of another bush, and was extricated; but his wife had sunk, and was not found until next morning half a mile below. There were several "hair-breadth escapes." Two children in a bed were buoyed up by the water until they were reached by the parents, who also narrowly escaped being drowned.

James G. Brooks, the poet, late editor of the New-York Courier, has gone to Rochester to be associated in the editorial management of "The Craftsman," which has been changed to a weekly literary publication.

The wife of George Caldwell, of Jefferson county, Ky. was murdered a few days ago by a negro girl, assisted by her father. Both are committed.

Good Toast.—The following toast was given lately in Virginia. "The Leaky Tub of the present administration—may it be stopped with CLAY."

The stage from Springfield to Hartford, on Friday last, broke through the bridge on Scantic river, East Windsor, and was precipitated 14 feet to the water below. The stage was broken to pieces, and three of the horses killed; one passenger had his skull fractured, and six others were badly injured.

Samuel M. Roberts, nominated by the President to be District Attorney for the District of Illinois, was on the 18th inst. rejected by the Senate.

We learn by the New-York Advertiser, that the Rev. T. H. Gallaudet, principal of the American Asylum at Hartford, has resigned his office on account of ill health.

William B. Giles, late Governor of Virginia, has been elected a member of the House of Delegates of that State.

The Newbern Spectator, (N. C.) mentions an instance of wonderful longevity in that State. Anthony Van Pelt, Greene county, lately died at the advanced age of 126 years and 2 months. During the revolutionary war, he was excused from military duty on account of his years. He is said to have enjoyed to the last, in a remarkable manner, the use of all his faculties, particularly his sight.

John Randolph.—"Mr. Randolph," says a correspondent of the Enquirer, "attended the election, in his county, although in an extremely debilitated condition of body. He delivered a long address to the people, in support of the adoption of the new Constitution. His speech was a very happy effort, full of touching eloquence and pathos, towards the close of which, he took occasion to observe, that, at that place, more than 30 years ago, he made his first public speech, and that it was at the same place, he was now delivering his last."

Emigration.—One thousand two hundred strangers, all seeking "the west," arrived in the village of Buffalo during the three days ending the 11th inst. and have most of them taken passage up the lake for various ports. A large proportion of this number consists of English emigrants, who are seeking a home in our new states and territories.

Miseries of Wealth.—We witnessed a strange sight on Thursday evening within a few doors of our office: A young man had drawn a large prize in one of the lotteries, and had just received the proceeds, amounting to near eight thousand dollars. It drove him crazy on the spot. No sooner had he received the money than his senses forsook him, and being an utter stranger in the city, he roamed through the streets like a madman, until going into a jeweller's shop near Fourth street, he purchased a dagger, for which he offered to give an hundred dollars. A crowd had followed him to the shop door, attracted by the singular spectacle; then he came out swearing vehemently that he would kill the first man he met, a threat which his distorted senses would certainly have impelled him to execute. We left him in the charge of some humane individuals, a melancholy instance of the weakness of poor human nature.—Phila. Saturday Bulletin.

The editor of the Huntsville Advocate, Alabama, deprecates the assertion made by Doctor Cooper, that it is "time to calculate the value of the Union."—The editor concludes a well written article thus—"We are not yet, we hope, prepared to ring the funeral knell of American grandeur, glory, and happiness! That knell will be rung by the same voice which proclaims the triumph of disunion, is our most solemn conviction."

[The editor of the Advocate is a Georgian by birth, but having spent some time in N. England, his feelings in regard to the preservation of the Union may have become considerably cooled from its Georgian temperament, by an association with the N. England people.]

The Ladies will do it.—Operations will soon commence, upon Buaker Hill Monument.

Extraordinary Occurrence.—On the 5th inst., Mr. Mason Wood, of Stratford, Montgomery county, went down into a well forty-two feet in depth, for the purpose of clearing out some quicksand which had run in about four feet in depth; when standing on two opposite stones at the bottom, one of them gave way—he made a spring to ascend by means of a rope, but a stone at that instant struck him on the head and knocked him down, and the whole mass of stone fell in and covered him to the depth of thirty-six feet! except a part of his hands, which happened to be confined so near his mouth that he could brush the earth away, and give himself by that means a chance to breathe; when, if his hand had been confined in any other position, he must have been suffocated from the quantity which kept constantly falling, in consequence of moving the stone above. He was taken out in about six hours and thirty minutes, very much bruised, but having no bones broken, and appears in a fair way to recover.—Little Falls Gas.

The Annals for 1831.—The Token for the next year is already in press in Boston. The Engravings, which are to be done on steel, are in the hands of Cheney, Ellis, Gallaudet and Hatch. The size of the work is to be enlarged. The Boston Daily Advertiser speaks of the contributions as being from accomplished writers, and of the typographical execution as being unusually neat. The Atlantic Souvenir is also in a forward state, and will be issued in due time, with undiminished claims to approbation.

The Navy.—The bill to reorganize the Navy failed in the Senate on Thursday. The blank in the first section had been previously filled on motion of Mr. Hayne, with a provision for the appointment of one Vice Admiral and two Rear Admirals. The Yeas and Nays on the question of engrossment, were 22 to 22.

The bill for regulating the Collection of Duties on Imports, (on which the Tariff debate took place in the House of Representatives,) was yesterday ordered to a third reading in the Senate, by so decisive a vote, as to leave no doubt of its passing that body. In its present shape, it is in fact a Treasury bill, the main object of it being to enforce the proper collection of existing duties.—Nat. Intel.

A noble Reply.—It is related of the eminent surgeon, Boudon, that he was one day sent for by the Cardinal Dubois, Prime Minister of France, to perform a very serious operation upon him. The Cardinal, on seeing him enter the room, said to him, "You must not expect, Sir, to treat me in the same rough manner as you treat those poor miserable wretches at the hospital of the Hotel Dieu." "My Lord," replied M. Boudon, with great dignity, "every one of those miserable wretches, as your eminence is pleased to call them, is a Prime Minister in my eyes."

State of Mexico.—The National Gazette of the 15th says—"We have advices of the latest date from Mexico, showing that her condition is indeed deplorable. The dominant faction are relentlessly persecuting their adversaries; dissolving contracts made by their predecessors, even after payments have been received; declaring the legislatures of the states opposed to them to be illegally constituted, in order to have new elections, and thereby fill the legislative assemblies with their own creatures. At the same time, resistance is almost every where organized, and a severe struggle is to be expected."

A violent hail storm occurred last week in the vicinity of Richmond, Virginia. It fell in such quantities on some of the farms, that two hours after the storm was over, the hail lay upon the ground to the depth of five or six inches. It is apprehended that much damage was done to the wheat on some of the farms on the river.

Prince Dimidoff was lately killed in a duel in Florence by Count de Rosenberg. The latter fled towards Milan, but was there stabbed with a poniard by a chasseur who was much attached to the Prince.

An experiment was made last season by a gentleman in Dennis of soaking seed corn in a solution of copperas, from 24 to 40 hours previous to planting. The corn thus soaked was untouched by worms, while some planted on the same piece in the common way, was very much injured. A Connecticut farmer has made a similar trial and says that it was not only untouched by worms, but yielded one third more. A pound of copperas dissolved in warm water is to be used to a peck of corn.—Barnstable Journal.

A writer in the Journal of Commerce states that a method has been discovered of making paper out of the moss which grows in great abundance in every part of the Southern states. It is thought the paper will be nearly equal to that made of hemp.

A Petersburg paper states that Col James Robertson, Collector of the Port of Petersburg, is a defaulter to a considerable amount; process having been served upon him, some time last week, at the suit of the United States, for about $25,000.

Old U. S. Bank.—The Trustees of the old Bank of the United States, have recently declared a dividend of two dollars a share on the capital stock of that Bank. This added to the former dividends, makes one hundred and eight and a half per cent. on each share of the capital stock of the Bank which has been divided, and we are informed a further dividend may be expected.—Eve Post.

The Rev. Silas Hawley was drowned in the Kaskaskia river, Illinois, on the 18th Jan. He was a native of Connecticut, and visited the western country as an agent of the American Sunday School Union. The first intelligence of his loss was from seeing an advertisement of finding his horse.

The Hudson Gazette states that the whaling business is about to be commenced in that city. A company has been formed, and two ships purchased, one of about 500 tons, and is destined for the sperm fishery in the Pacific Ocean, the other of 300 tons, for the whale fishery on the Brazil Banks.

Arrangements are made for carrying on the whaling business at Green Hill, in the town of Southold, L. I. Green Hill has a very fine harbor, and many other advantages for carrying on an extensive business in this branch of commerce.

Mr. Richard Dorsey, of Baltimore, recently identified at Kinderhook, N. Y. a slave who had absconded from him in 1823. He went home in manacles.

The Augusta Courier states that there are 3000 people in the Cherokee Territory, seeking for gold; that if one party finds a rich spot, it must keep it by its strength. At night parties collect by a pine-knot fire, over a bottle of whiskey, and play cards for the earnings of the day. The country presents a shocking scene of drunkenness, fighting and gambling.

Since the introduction of steam-boats into England, we are informed that but a single boat, (the Norwich) has burst her boiler. This was more than twelve years since. Immediately afterwards, there was a parliamentary enactment on the subject, and no disaster of the kind has since taken place.

A verdict of $4,000 was lately rendered against David Williamson, of Freehold, N. J. for slandering a young lady. No doubt served him rightly.

A young gentleman "from the country" last week entered a complaint at the police office in N. York, that he had been deceived in the purchase of a watch; he paid $20 for the article, under the impression that it was gold, but it turned out to be a copper watch.—The N. York Courier says:—"It appeared that the complainant had been passing by St. Paul's Church, and heard the person from whom he purchased lament to a third person the necessity he was under, to dispose of this 'superior gold watch' so much under its value; the complainant stopped and asked the price, the vender immediately said he would give it for the low sum of $20, that he was induced to do this from the low state of his pocket, that he had not entered any for two days; these arguments together, prevailed upon the unsuspecting Jerseyman to give the $20 for the trinket without any hesitation; but on going into a watchmaker's shop to have a key fitted to it, he was told that it was worth little more than one and a half or two dollars. The artful vender has not yet been found."

The new Constitution of Virginia.—As far as the votes have been ascertained, for and against the new constitution, the result is such as to leave no doubt that the people of that State have adopted it. The vote, by the latest advices, stands—Yea, 20,534; Nay, 10,530.—27 counties yet to be heard from.

Money Market.—The subscriptions for the stock of the New-York Life Insurance and Trust Company, shows that money is plenty in market. The capital incorporated is $1,000,000, and the subscription was more than $11,000,000. The persons named in the net took $600,000; and the other $400,000 were distributed by lottery, there being about thirty-seven blanks to one prize. The stock is already at a premium of 6 per cent.—ib.

Attempt to Rob the Mail.—The carrier of the Mail from Fredericksburg to Dumfries was shot at on Tuesday night, about five miles below Dumfries. The man received a severe wound in the face, and fell from his horse; but the animal being frightened, escaped with the mail, and arrived safe at Dumfries. The mail carrier, it is thought, will recover.

Bank of Columbia.—James Powers, Esq. the Receiver of the Bank of Columbia, has collected sufficient to enable him to pay a dividend of fifty per cent. to the creditors on or after the 17th inst. Such creditors as have not yet presented their claims, are required to do so on or before the first day October next, or to be debared thereafter from any previous or subsequent dividend.

The Harriet.—Notice has issued from the Navy Department that six months pay will, under the late act of Congress, be distributed among the surviving relatives, in nearest degree, to wit, wife, child, parent, brother or sister, upon proof of relationship being laid before the Fourth Auditor.—Troy Sent.

A young widow, FOURTEEN years old, has been committed to the New-York House of Refuge for a misdemeanor.

A gentleman in Dennis last season tried the method of soaking part of his corn in copperas water, before planting—that portion was untouched by worms, while the other was much injured.

Duff Green republishes Webb's bulletin, and, in his remarks upon it, states that the barrel of the pistol was four, not eight inches long; that the staff was walnut, not mahogany; that the speech recorded by Mr. Webb is a "fancy sketch;" and that Webb leaned against the north not the "south jamb of the door." These are the only particulars in which the two accounts disagree.

Presence of mind.—The Newburgh Gazette relates a recent instance of presence of mind worthy of praise and reward. At the time of the explosion on board the Chief Justice Marshall the waiting woman belonging to the boat was sitting in the ladies' cabin; she instantly shut the door, and by her exertions prevented the female passengers from opening it until the steam had subsided; the ladies escaped injury.

Lazy Wit.—A short time since a society was formed in a neighboring town for the laudable purpose of discountenancing those unnecessary exertions of body and mind which those who wish to be considered smarter than their neighbors are accustomed to undergo. It was named the Lazy and Idle Society, and among its regulations it was provided that if any member rose before seven o'clock in the morning, he should be excluded. After a while it was more than intimated that one of the most conspicuous of its members had been repeatedly seen in an arm chair front of his house, as early as five o'clock in the morning: these rumors caused a special meeting, at which the accused was summoned to be dealt with according to his deserts. The evidence was clear, and there remained no doubt that he had been guilty of a flagrant breach of the rules of the society. When called upon for his defence, however, he repelled with indignation the aspersions against his character, and avowed himself a true convert to the principles he professed. "This is true," said he, "I have been found in the condition stated, but the reason is this; I am accustomed to take that position after supper, and when bed time comes I feel too lazy to stir, and so remain there through the night.—Amer. Manuf.

Mr. Clay.—It is suggested in the Cincinnati American, that Mr. Clay the approaching summer may visit New-York and the New-England States. We hope the suggestion may not be disregarded. As it has been given out that the President is about to make a political movement in this direction, the next summer, we presume Mr. Clay, a private man, may visit his friends here, without having his motives misrepresented and calumniated. Unless we wholly mistake public sentiment, Mr. Clay would be most heartily welcomed.—Bost. Post.

Floating Stone.—We yesterday, for the first time in our life, saw a stone, about 13 inches long, by six in width, and three inches thick, floating like wood on the surface of fresh water. It is a part of a block 33 1/2 inches long, 18 1/2 wide, and 5 1/2 thick, weighing 133 pounds, was picked up at sea by the Sarah, whaler-ship from the Pacific, bound to Nantucket. In color and appearance it resembles very closely a block of coarse granite, such as is used in building. There are no pores visible, though the grain is by no means compact. It bears no resemblance to petrified wood, or to any species of coral which we ever have seen.

Steam-Boats.—The Secretary of the Treasury is required to report, at the next session of Congress, such information as he may be able to collect, with his views thereon, to enable Congress to apply a remedy, if found practicable, to prevent explosions in steam-boats.

A dead letter, directed "James Brown, Albany," has been transmitted from Washington to the New-York Post-Office. It contains a Phoenix Bank note for $500.

Farmington Canal.—A boat now plies regularly between Westfield and New-Haven on this canal.—It is to make two trips a week, running night and day each way.

Hon. Robert Treat Paine of Boston, has been appointed by the Governor of Massachusetts to make a general survey of that commonwealth, and to project an accurate plan of the State—no doubt for the purpose of making a new map.

Dispepsia.—The New-Haven City Gazette states that the secret cure for the dispepsia, discovered by a gentleman of New-York, has leaked out, and consists of simply kneading the stomach with the hands, thereby restoring the peristaltic motion in cases where the digestive organs have become diseased and torpid. Whether it would be attended with very excellent effects in cases of indigestion; and instances are within our positive knowledge of persons who, by resorting to this mode of renewing the peristaltic action of the intestines, have derived very important assistance. We know of one individual, in particular, who was thus, in the space of less than three weeks, restored to comparative health, after having languished in a most miserable condition for many months in consequence of dispepsia.—N. Y. Eve. Post.

Three lads, John Storer, Waterman W. Briggs, and Alonzo C. Bugbee, were drowned in Canterbury, in this State, on the 20th ult. They had gone into the water to bathe.

It is among the reports at Washington, that if Gen. Jackson runs again for President, Gov. Van Buren goes as Vice President upon the same ticket.

A living Rhinoceros, or Unicorn, said to be the first ever brought to this country, is now exhibiting in Boston, whither it was recently imported from the neighborhood of Calcutta. It is only 15 months old, four and a half feet in height, and weighs about 2000 pounds. It is the natural enemy to the Elephant, and in most contests with that animal destroys him.

A canal-bent, propelled by steam, built at Rochester, passed Weedsport a few days since with a cargo.—She moves with about the same speed as the other boats on the canal. Her wheels are at the stern. It is now thought that the project of propelling by steam may answer on that canal.

Connecticut Eye Infirmary.

THE undersigned having located himself in the city of Hartford, for the purpose of attending exclusively to the practice of Surgery, has by the advice of several eminent Physicians, deemed it expedient to establish an EYE INFIRMARY, the object of which is to render gratuitous surgical aid to indigent persons throughout the state, who may be afflicted with diseases of the eyes.

Advice will cheerfully be given to persons who are not prepared to submit to surgical treatment.

A sum of money has been deposited by several benevolent individuals, for the purpose of supplying those patients with medicines, who apply at the Infirmary and are unable to furnish themselves.

Institutions of this character have for many years been in operation in various parts of our own country and in Europe; and the fact that the attention of the Surgeon is constantly directed to the diseases of a particular organ has produced the most beneficial results.

The subscriber has in the course of his professional studies attended the New-York Eye and Ear Infirmary, and will adopt the mode of practice pursued in that institution.

The office of the Infirmary is on the west side of Main-street, a few doors south of the Connecticut Courant office.

Days of attendance, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays, between the hours of two and three, P. M.
